Projects

- Designing a space vector Pulse Width Modulation for 9 and 11 Cascaded H-Bridge Multilevel Inverters

This involves creating a control strategy to efficiently manage the switching of the H-Bridge inverters to generate the desired output voltage levels. Project that focuses on optimizing the modulation technique for multilevel inverters. When applied to Cascaded H-Bridge Multilevel Inverters, it allows for precise control and efficient operation by generating specific voltage vector. Calculate the switching angles for each level to ensure smooth transitions between voltage levels. Testing and fine-tuning these angles will be key to achieving optimal performance.
